Maybe there are people here who can help with the search for new owners? I have a cat that is not spayed, although there are very good owners. She is homely and affectionate, but does not like strangers. I have been living with my mother for a month now and everything would be fine, but for 3 nights now I have been waking up from her terrible scream and cannot understand what is happening. She runs, meows, and I'm scared, because I'm still awake and I don't understand everything, but not to the same extent!
