In the second window, in the line with a red circle, click "Open" - this will open the window Important note: when installing a software product, you must have superuser rights, if you do not have superuser rights, then you will not be able to fully install the program. You can install the program only while on the computer (without external intervention). All programs that, after installation, can be launched using the installation shortcut are automatically launched by default. With help, you can interrupt the installation process and start it from the beginning. You can install the Virtual Machine or run a program that would download and install the operating system (in this case, you need to know exactly how the installer opens), but how to run the installer in the Virtual Machine is described in the section Installing programs on the system disk. Create an installation folder on the system drive: In order to install the program on the system folder, you need to create such a folder by simply copying the program files into it, and not downloading them from the Internet. After creating a folder with programs (or directory), you need to create a shortcut, and then activate it by clicking on the "Add to ~" link in the folder_name line. The shortcut is created on the desktop or in the folder where the installer is located. To install programs on Windows XP, click the "Install" button in the "Programs" section, in the table that opens, click the "Install by default" link. In the form that opens, select the folder that you want to specify as the installation folder. This will automatically copy and install the program. On the Name tab, specify a folder. Click the "OK" button. If you have any other questions or difficulties with installing the program - write to us and we will try to help!
