New York State Route 340 New York State Route 340 (NY 340) is a north-south state highway in the western part of New York in the United States. It extends for from an intersection with NY 14A in the Town of Richfield to a junction with NY 318 in the town of Clayton. The route serves the village of Spring Glen as well as several hamlets within the town of Richfield. The eastern section of the route passes through the Adirondack Park in the communities of Bath, Beaverkill, and Saranac Lake. The portion of the route in the town of Richfield was originally designated as part of New York State Route 11, which extended northward from Attica, New York to Saranac Lake, when the New York State Legislature created the state route system in 1924. Designated as part of Route 11 in 1924, Route 11 was truncated to the intersection of Route 144 in the town of Attica by 1930. However, this portion of Route 11 retained its designation as part of NY 340 until the 1930 renumbering of state highways in New York. It remained this way until the early 1980s, when an open cut was constructed between Attica and Beaverkill. This section of the state highway became a two-lane road, while the upgraded portion north of Bath retained the four-lane highway originally designated as part of Route 11. In 2009, the New York State Department of Transportation (NYSDOT) proposed reconstructing the highway to a two-
