For about one year, BTC/USD reached the stage where the price of a bitcoin was higher than the price of US Dollar for the first time. Then, it reduced in a major correction that reduced its price to around $7,000. This happened one year after BTC/USD reached $19,000. What is the reason that BTC/USD remains at the same price level (close to $7,000) after such a large correction? Does BTC/USD have to drop in price for a few months before it can come back? Thanks! A: The reason is not that a correction is required, but that the longest consecutive price drop since reaching 7k USD was a correction of about 80%. There are different events that caused the price to lose over 75% of its value between 13/9/2018 and 10/10/2018. Here are 3 of the top reasons: Before the price drop, the BTC/USD exchange rate had been going up and down for a year, so that the price stabilized around $7,000 USD. Some big Bitcoin exchanges started to face problems with their BTCH/USD exchange rate. The first exchange to face problems with their exchange rate was Bitfinex. 1 Bitcoin whales noticed that the price was stagnating, and they convinced other people who had bitcoin, but had no bitcoin wallets or staking, to sell their bitcoin and buy bitcoin directly
