: Dimension-1.0 Created by, Abraham Jones V5.0 We are twenty years from now and the human race has achieved a higher level of development than the previous age. We evolve faster in the physical world, but we also evolve more exponentially in the psychological and emotional world. Thus, we are able to attain a higher level of understanding and discovery than ever before. Yet, the capabilities we develop with the help of technology is put to a higher purpose than the advancement of human civilization. Many civilizations have lost their position on the evolutionary scale simply because they do not have the courage to accept themselves. In other words, every civilization has become arrogant and their leaders and leaders have lost their sense of self and purpose. This is my depiction of an inevitable future that will occur if we fail to acknowledge and accept the evolution of human civilization. - the return of the middle east - iddris of england - a secret society- a hidden order - roddy krim - human empowerment - science & technology- the man that will fire the world- the philip rushton - war of civilizations 3.0- new world order - david icke - world government - mark hamilton - time war 3.0- the myth of apollo - out of body experience- the book of rome - time war 3.0- alignment- interdimensional war- time war 3.0- during the drafting stage- august 14, 2012 - the interchange- eternal war- the myth of apollo – the return of the middle east – idris of england – time war 3.0- this is a secret society- the tactics of war – roddy krim – time war 3.0- the ultimate end game – david icke – the science of strings is changing our view of the world - mark hamilton – the myth of apollo- sources for " the capacity of human groupings to function in interdependent and self-correcting ways, to come to emergent agreements on the physical properties of the region of the future, and to agree on desirable policies and procedures. the ultimate philosophy behind the use of computational devices and the calculation of algorithms is economic. the principle behind it is to create the best possible outcome given the constraints of a particular situation - people have forgotten how to solve these types of problems - maybe a failed state will be better since we will have been saved. in the next 20 years we are on the cusp of a great shift in human development; it will not

Dead Nation is the adventure of Joe, a red cap wearing speed-mad schmuck struggling to save the world from the baddie who killed his dog. With the help of some friends you'll travel through 20 levels of zombie infested wasteland in a quest to rescue your dog and avenge your death. Accompanied by unique vehicles, Joe's madcap antics and reactive animations bring his various rag-doll physics to life. Dodge flaming cars, kill giant mechs, dodge cops, rooftops,...you name it Joe can do it, and even though the game is as simple as it gets and quite easy to get a high score, i think this is by far Joe's most beautiful and challenging game to date. Don't expect anything of the logic puzzle variety in this one, but I'm sure some of you as thinking about that. It's a straight "smash-em-up-monster" course with Joe. That's what makes this game what it is. Stick with the likes of OutRun in this one, for that retro feel and confidence of playing a game with some humour, puns and charm. Like?, dislike? or have any questions about this game? Leave a comment down below. How to play : GAMEPLAY The main goal in each stage is to survive for as long as you can, and often rely on your vehicles to be able to move around a level in a pinch. The levels are usually very open, with you taking control of Joe, who can move, shoot, dodge and even jump in order to keep on his feet and avoid the oncoming zombies. Each stage offers a variety of vehicles, with each one offering a different driving style, from a simple manual jeep, to a self-driving tank. Vehicles are not free-to-play and require fuel, so once you run out of fuel, your journey comes to an end. You can respawn at any checkpoint, but once you die, that's game over. You can't reload, and you can't do a hard reset (no save option, sorry). You're dead, just like in real life. SPEED The main goal in each level is to get as far as you can without running out of fuel or being caught by cops. Fortunately, there are plenty of checkpoints set-up throughout the levels, so you can slow down or speed up if need be. I've noticed that the more you get of the checkpoint markers
