Such condition is possible and is satisfied only by the very steep potentials. Therefore, we can anticipate a radically different behavior if we include the effects of the Gaussian couplig: this new deep potential may reduce considerably the anomalous motion. This result has been checked starting from the following Hamiltonian
$$H = -\frac{1}{2} \frac{\partial^2}{\partial x^2} + \gamma \exp(-x^2)$$ which leads to:
$$\frac{E_n}{E_0} = \frac{n^2}{2} + \frac{1}{2} \left[1 + \frac{a}{n} \sqrt{1 + \gamma^2} \right]$$
 In Fig. 1 the calculated values of the energy ratio are compared with the corresponding experimental values. A great improvement is found, particularly for the $a=0$ case. The potential (H_{new}) has a minimum at $x=0$, what seems to be a strange feature, however it is perfectly possible and it is not forbidden by principle. (color online) The comparison between the theoretical results ([FINAL]) and the experimental values for E_n/E_0 . Here the square root in the factor a/n of Eq. ([FINAL]) has been substituted by its argument. (fig1) (fig1.eps) {width="0.65\linewidth"} The remaining problem is the prediction of the γ value which is the cornerstone of the general argument. We have solved numerically the Hamiltonian
$$H = -\frac{1}{2} \frac{\partial^2}{\partial x^2} + \gamma \exp(-x^2)$$

The targeted immigration system began on April 1, 2016. By that time, the government had already extended that system several times, at one point for 90 days. Following a declaration of emergency, the government eventually made permanent this targeted immigration policy that has led to over 41,000 people being separated from their families and families across the country. This policy has resulted in severe trauma for these families and their children. "Separating families - children from parents - and throwing children into the system alone as some of the worst possible things you can do to a child's life is something we all know. We are horrified," said Nicole Gochnour, CCLA's Immigration & Refugee Director
