The ultimate survival simulator inspired by The Road, and Towerfall. A randomly generated landscape to build your own city. Tons of different types of MOABs (Mechanical On-line Alarming Bombs.) Each MOAB is a unique experience to blow up the landscape of your city. MOABs explode with different results and effect, depending on the MOAB type. New MOABs can be found online and you have to fight each other to become the best. Crews are the key for victory. You will need to create, manage, and control a perfect crew to beat the world. Dive into the incredible adventure of Lil Tanks. Notes
*All of the effects, possibilities and effects of the MOABs are done by the player of the game. *The A.I. is not designed to defeat the best crews, but will place you on the map of the map the city you chose. *Any questions regarding this application, please visit the Official Support Page: Special thanks to @nikon90 for giving me the motivation to make this awesome game! @ruhrigan for his great design of the UI. @barleybros for the fantastic support and making this game more playable than ever! @norjunga for the soundtrack :) @rigiucini for his help testing and giving me advice on the gameplay. summary {#Sec1} ===== On April 9, 2019, Africa reported the first confirmed case of Ebola in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC), south of the river Kwango, a tributary of the great African Congo River, on March 30, in Kasai Occidental Province (Fig. 1{ref-type="fig"}) \[\[@CR1]\]. This first case involved an 18-year-old woman who had a history of direct contact with bats. Over the ensuing 2 weeks, a new cluster of three cases occurred near the village of Meliandou; another cluster, with five cases, occurred around the village of Uvira; and a fifth cluster, with five cases, emerged in the linked locations of Ibwai and Mabalako. Fifteen patients were identified. Since that time, there have been small outbreaks, with seven cases, in Ibenga and Makanza. Zaire Ebola virus (EBOV) was confirmed in all cases. Fig. 1 The outbreak locations in the Democratic Republic of Congo. Inset maps show the placement of the affected Prefectures within the country and the percentage of DRC's national landmass covered by each province WHO issued an extraordinary Public Health Emergency of International Concern on May 4, and the outbreak was declared a Public Health Emergency of International Concern (PHEIC) by the African Commission on Human and Peoples' Rights (CPR) on May 15 \[[@CR2]\]. A number of risk factors have been identified associated with the origin of this outbreak, including the region's reported high bushmeat consumption and hunting, impulsive burial practices in community graveyards, and the intense transmission into a forest environment that has poor access to critical services due to natural disasters and armed conflict. In addition, detection and response limitations compounded by regional conflicts and logistical and administrative problems have hindered outbreak control in this country. CPR is the legislative body of the African Union (AU), a 40-member intergovernmental organization that supports the implementation of the UN Charter. It draws its competencies and mandates from the AU Charter and organizes itself as an intergovernmental organ with a permanent Secretariat that provides secretariat and support services to the members. Since the 1960s, the AU has worked on promoting good governance through peacekeeping, human rights, and the rule of law to achieve the Millennium Development Goals. This is in accordance with the International Declaration on Human Rights and

In the not-too-distant future, hoverboards are all the rage. People love them and they just want more. Soon, skateboarding was gone, replaced with an absurd form of skateboarding that includes having hoverboards. This must be stopped. The future of skateboarding is being held in the hands of a young skateboarder by the name of Thrasher. He must find four other notable skateboarders from around the world and make a team of eight. Together, they must thwart all the skateboard manufacturers from creating hoverboards. In this game, you'll take the part of Thrasher, who knows what to look for and what he needs to do, as you try to figure out how to acquire each needed skateboard. In between fights and other puzzles, you'll make your way through the streets of a board city, inside tall buildings, and into a massive sports arena, all trying to avoid enemies and dodge obstacles. Features: * An engaging story-driven experience full of action and adventure * Hours of addictive single-player game play * Cool art-style and colorful game world * Epic soundtrack and easy to play controls * Amazing and powerful hoverboards in the game * An immersive city to explore, and skateboard on in-game * Challenging and entertaining puzzle segments * Achievements and Leaderboards for the competitive players * Supported Android and iOS devices

Now Playing: Support this channel: This is part 5 in a series of reviews of the Soul of the Ultimate Pokemon series. This review, like the previous ones was based primarily on the first generation games for Gameboy. Like the previous reviews, this one was made before the 4th generation of Pokemon games came out, so some of these things don't apply to the new generation. Special thanks to OD17. [23 reviews] About Us: Sodom & Gomorrah is a mature, atheistic, Satanic blog/forum.
