What's new in Pollito Amp; Xiang Xiang: Adventure In The Forest:

of Guizhou, China Two delightful paintings celebrating the special rice-based treat -- okra gumball -- of Guizhou province's Huizhou region. The paint, luckily, does not stick to the cardboard, so it is easy to peel off the okra. Pinturas del siglo XXI de Cixi: Una elegante reinterpretación de una música de la Guguan, Guizhou, China An extremely clever reinterpretation of the Guguan music of Guizhou province depicting the early 20th century artistic reinvention and transformation of Zihua Kunpeng, a char-pool performer. The performer's original mother was a water buffalo, named Guipin. With modern instruments and a reinterpretation that I think breaks new artistic ground for this master, the album brings to light the great cultural traditions of the region. The Tabernaemontanae 1 round of 3 questing novas, imaginative magic and playful, delicate art that makes me insanely happy to see. There will be more! Gothic Interiors, Delhi 1 session of a compelling reading and performance by Daljit Nagra. The author has a collection of her translations held in the Lalit Kala Akademi in New Delhi's India International Centre. I was fortunate to experience a reading at that magnificent institution. I was completely captivated. This burlesque performance moves by way of an alternative reality that is creative and fearlessly ambitious. Daljit Nagra's love of language, a scholar's sagacity, spot-on ear, an acerbic intelligence and just a merry touch of colour all combined to bring me to a new kind of pleasure. The Cairo clown who he wrote about reminded me of Mr. Punch, the English humorist. And the title of the show, "The Tabernaemontanae", alludes to Caecilius Meleager's classic epic that got its name from the arena where the contests between charioteers were organised. Vittorio Colonna put together for the Renaissance painter and architect, Giuliano da Sangallo, a package of assorted woodcuts. These printblocks--made in the late 15th century--were intended to be used by the artist in the design of the Uffizi's Grande Galerie, Florence. They were tucked away in an ossuary where they must have
