It's one of the best Tower Defense games on Android. The graphics are pixel-art and make the whole experience look rather nostalgic, while the gameplay is reminiscent of the classic TD games like the infamous Populous series. You have to defend yourself with various spells and heroes against a horde of enemies as you build up your tower to stop the hordes of evil from destroying the world. Great Tower Defense game with good graphics, sound and gameplay. For those who grew up with classic tower defense games this is probably a perfect way to relive the memories. It may not be so easy though, because at first the graphics seem to be very simple, so you should know how to customize them first. Controls are smooth, and there is not much to mention. If you are looking for the good old days of games from this genre, please try this free Tower Defense game. It is definitely worth trying for sure. Among other features there is a 3D Art Gallery, allowing you to see and admire over 700 hand-painted 3D images created by Soviet artists of the second half of the XX century. Also there is an Achievement System and Inventory for saving the best stats and equipments. GRADUATION KING is a 3D colorful platform game, on a puzzle theme. Help young Jason to graduate high school and to become an honor roll student! Help young Jason to graduate high school and to become an honor roll student! The town, where he lives, is very calm, the inhabitants do not talk to each other, there are no kids. Everyone is studying, going to work, waiting for the time to pass, etc. However, this will be about to change. The shadow of shadowed devil "Strange Noise" will break the peace and turn the world into hell. In order to save the world, Jason must go to the school and pass the graduation exam. As the theme is puzzle, he must fix a few things, solve a few puzzles, and do his best to graduate high school in honor! In this game, you'll be able to touch the monsters in the way you touch the bricks. Use the touch screen to build an army of monsters. Defeat your enemies in the arena and become a master of monster fighting! Get ready to dig, fight, build, fight, build, and fight some more! We've got dungeons for you to explore and monsters to fight in this first-person dungeon crawler. Tired of fetch

What's new:

1/8/2018 Fantasy Grounds Version 0.9 Table of Contents The Frozen Oath The Ice Knife followed its mark until they were within a step of the orc. One goblin out in front signaled with a wave of his hands and the armies of orcs tensed and readied themselves to charge the lone human. With one last desperate move, Unseen by any of the orc on the flank, The Ice Knife slipped silently away from the platoon. Holding himself upright, the human youth used one fist to clamp the axe's blade in the stone. With his other he ripped a shard of ice from the frozen ground. He dripped blood onto the ash of the vlekite. With a cry of hatred he began casting a spell. He released the ice from the frozen ground in the shape of a spear. The spear of ice should fell an orc, but it only jerked this way and that in the air, vaguely uncertain of where it would land. The human's eyes were locked on his foe. In his mind, seeing part of the orc's position under the ice would only give away his position. He didn't want to try to slice through the ice near the troops, as that would surely do damage to them, as well. But if he put the ice in a place where it could fall where he wanted, he'd have a chance to strike before the skier spoke. Before the ice in the orc's skull shattered his brain. But his foe knew the location, and knew he wouldn't be able to wait for an opening. The orc closed as if to attack, bit by bit, putting ground between them. The ice spear smacked into the orc's chest, spun around, and sliced a gash in his chest. Before the spear could strike again, the orc put his heavy hand on it and yanked it out of place. He would smash it to pieces, and then whirl and deal damage to the human. And the human responded, advancing on the fallen orc with short strides, and extending his arms toward his foe. The lad's rage boiled at the sight of the orc's wounds, and he shouted out his anger in a warcrying war cry. Suddenly, a blade of white light slashed through the orc's chest, and then through his head. The orc crumpled, and sat on the snow, and was still. The human youth eyed
