You might want to check it out. It's about a million years old, so give it a glance in the fossil record. 3) I had never seen the original before. Cool! There were also some decent looking cameras, one of them had a nice little spotlight and one i think was just a regular color. Has anyone ever posted an ice age review? It's pretty lengthy, if I remember correctly. On the other hand you have a guy who is new to guns and probably wouldn't get anywhere else on the web, a lot of pictures, multiple opinions, and you have something you can discuss at your local gun shop. Something about the simplicity of the action. I remember having some friends over that he had just bought that 'other' super soaker that looks exactly like the one in the movie. @Brinkman & Marla What i like about that rifle is that you can hold it in two hand just like in the movie, because you only have one hand to raise the thing. I did not see them raise and aim the thing or anything else, they just jumped to their feet, raised the weapon and fired... so maybe the whole thing is a bit unrealistic - but still better than most of the guns in the movies.
