looking at how to extend MVC controllers. I created a brand new site, which is part of a publishing site (i.e. not in the root). I am using the MVC 4 and Umbraco 7. I am using the MVC Contrib package. The goal of this is to port all of the previous extensions into one standalone assembly. I have read and understood the microsoft documentation, and I am close. I am having some trouble with: 1) How to use the [System.ComponentModel.DataAnnotations.Schema.Table("users")] Attribute, when I want it to appear in the controller action 2) When I want to see the Umbraco module in the "References" tab of the project. I can't seem to find it there, but in the Umbraco.Web.Models assembly. How do I get this to show up, and more importantly, how do I make it appear in the "references" tab? Code example would be appreciated. Thanks!

Cheers, Brian A: In MVC Contrib you need to use [Umbraco.Web.Mvc.UmbracoController], ie: public class UsersController : Umbraco.Web.Mvc.Umbraco
