PIXELS is the award-winning hybrid of a turn-based strategy game and an action-RPG where you play as a digital creature fighting to survive. Watch out for pixelating attacks, discover secrets and fight through an incredible world. It's going to be a good one. PIXELS is a unique hybrid of a Strategy game and an Action/Roguelike game with a great emphasis on a tactical combat system and humor. Help Jonathan make his way through the virtual world of PIXELS. Character evolution is a main focus. With upgrades available at each city the possibilities are endless. Watch a series of tutorials to make sure that you understand the basics before attempting to fight a battle. PIXELS also has a "hardcore" mode and there will be additional content in the future. PIXELS is currently in Early Access for Steam and a future port to Nintendo Switch.

Why do things look so different from your cat's eyes?

Ever notice how cats' eyes are massive and have such a sharp depth of field? If this illustration reminds you of the view your cat's eyes offer, then you'll really want to read on.

The human eye is pretty good. It's incredibly selective and can detect colors and brightness that our cat eyes can't. However, the human eye does have some shortcomings. It doesn't have the following features that animals have:

You are a magical warrior who must fight against the undead empire. They have stolen your home and are taking over the world. Their evil has grown so bad that the very gods themselves must bring them down. This Kickstarter is being created to add support to the server for Chess Stars which is the table tennis game currently being played in the Death Trading Card game. It will be free to play and also available to purchase. Hopefully Chess Stars can help bring this game to the forefront by being one of the first card games to bring the online table tennis community together. "People who are suffering from leukemia and other life-threatening diseases are looking for a way to survive this difficult time," said Tom Johnson, CEO of NetHope. "We have seen survivors of childhood cancer become life-long advocates for cancer research. It is our hope that this campaign will encourage other survivors and their families to join together in research to find a cure and offer our nation's children, as well as adults, a way to live long and productive lives." NetHope is an affiliate of the Ann and Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago and its Pediatric Oncology program. To learn more, visit www.oncho.org. Clinical determinants of febrile convulsions in neonates: a retrospective study of 500 newborns. To describe the clinical presentation and determinants of initial febrile seizures in newborns (NBs). This is a cross-sectional retrospective study performed at a reference hospital for NBs and their relatives in the city of Itapevi, Pará, Brazil, from July 2001 to December 2006. A database was created with information on demographic, clinical and paraclinical variables of NBs with the first convulsive episode from 0 to 30 days of life. 581 NB were followed during the study period (84.6% of 648 children). The mean (SD) age was 6.6 (5.3) days. During the first 72 hours of life, 58.1% of NB presented fever. The study population included 11 febrile children (1.9%). Febrile convulsions were more common in premature NBs (90.9%) compared with full-term children (42.1%) (P c9d1549cdd)

What's more patriotic than a barbecue? Nothing, that's what! BBQ is a special way to cook food that brings out the family a little closer. In Fishing Planet, you can cook delicious foods and enjoy a BBQ feast in your very own backyard! It's an intuitive game that lets you make your own fishing dream come true. Of course, when the ultimate food is being made, you have to spend some time fishing. Fishing Planet is a fishing game with a unique, addictive experience. You have to build your own marine ecosystem and attract and catch various fish species in your own fish garden. You can decide which species to cultivate and add them to your garden. You can also collect coins during your fishing sessions, which can be used to update your fish garden, purchase new items for your boat, purchase fish varieties or even build a fishing ranch. You can use this time to catch a specific fish species to set the hook and make the catch of a lifetime. Fish can be fed to ensure their survival and their successful reproduction. So, get into it with your fishing rods and enjoy one of life's greatest pleasures! FEATURES Catch and fry fish in a special fish tank. Control your fish pond and watch them grow! Manage fish feed and create your own fish breed. Build your own fishing ranch with fishing parcels and fish eggs. Updates for the fishing ranch. New models for the fish tanks. Spawn and train fishes. Feed all fishes or use them for fishery products. Fish breeding and fish eggs management. Fishing techniques: Decorate the fish pond with decorations and stencilled fish species. New plants: Awesome mango trees and a coral reef. Quiz contest: The most successful pet fish wins the trophy. Grow fish with aquariums: Very useful if you want to set fish eggs in water. Fish Species: Four: Marlin, Trout, Sticklebacks and Golden touch-friendly search engine based on ideas found at this link: The lines that catch my eye are: `$('#div#container').jqSortable({ // since we add our element in the DOM, // it's better to use absolute positioning // or we would always be bothered with the scrolling height beforeStop: clear_elements, opacity: 0.75, ghostClass: 'ghost', handle: '.handle', helper: 'original', events: { 'out': function() { //adding a "ghost" effect to the on every out events $('#div#container').addClass('jqSortableBox2'); $('#div#container').jqSortable('refreshPositions'); } } });` Now, I understand why we do it, but what does `$('#div#container').jqSortable('refreshPositions');` do? Why don't we just put `var $temp = $('#div#container');` and then do `$temp.jqSortable('refreshPositions');`? Is there any functional difference between the two? A: As documentation says: `refreshPositions` - it asks jQVM to recalculate all current sortable positions.

A group of young girls from all over the world start at Alice once more in a new way. In the game you will meet Elise, a girl from France who always could feel the presence of the other girls. A girl from Spain, who can feel the sickness of the volcano. A girl from Africa, that keeps thinking that the tower is too big for her to grasp. And finally, two girls from America. All of them are at the Alice Academy, learning to overcome their differences. The teachers are doing everything to improve their knowledge, like in the history, but the most important thing is that the girls start to learn to understand each other. This is the story about the beginning of the world, about how we all have the "one" feeling. How we all can feel that the world is more than us, and that we have to learn to live together with others. Why is the earth round? And who is everyone? The game is about life and death, but at the same time it is about learning and growing. It is about learning to understand each other, to understand that we all were born together and that we all will die together. For the moment, it is only possible to talk in a sisterly way to each other, but if the girls start really getting to know each other, it will be possible to talk to each other more. The girls will start to understand each other more and more until they start to really feel that they are the same. And then it will be possible to really start to share their life to each other. You would never believe that the world really starts with this one feeling.

Alice's Adventures in Wonderland (1951) The legendary film adaptation of Lewis Carroll's classic tale of Alice's adventures in Wonderland was released to theaters on March 26, 1951 and has recently been released on Blu-ray by Criterion. The film was directed by Selznick International Pictures and was filmed in Technicolor. It stars film, Broadway and television actress Anne Baxter as Alice, Rex Harrison as the White Knight and a chorus of well-known child performers. The film's dialogue has been dubbed by studio sound engineers. According to film critic Jonathan Rosenbaum: This is a cultural accident, the earliest and most complete Hollywood adaptation of a Carroll story. Where others had to bypass his exquisitely designed nonsense in order to make a more or less adequate feature, Selznick took it all in, and used
