Like the name suggests, Pnotes.NET is a tool that allows you to create sticky notes on your desktop. There are two types of notes that can be created using this application. You can create a regular note, that will be sticky on the desktop, but not be password protected. Or, you can create a note that you can password protect, and that can be created and edited from your desktop. Once you create a password protected note, you can always access it from any computer you are using at the time. Simply right click on the desktop and select the Pnotes.NET item from the list. The first time you run the application, the software will ask for your user name and password. You can then select the note type that you wish to use, as well as customize the note appearance, with the ability to change the background color, background transparency, font type and font size. Once you make your desired changes, just click the Save Changes button on the toolbar. Before you leave the application, you can click the Design View button on the toolbar to see what you have done so far, and you can also open the note's properties dialog, which contains a variety of options. For example, you can add an image to the note's background, or you can view all other files in the application's data directory and determine which ones to save to the note. You can also add tags to your notes. If the tag you want to use is listed as one of the note's tags, it will be used. You can also add multiple tags, so that you can find notes with many different keywords. Once you are finished, you can click the Save button on the toolbar, to save all of your work. You can place notes on your desktop, and the program will allow you to define how far away they are from the edge of the screen. You can also define the order that your notes appear when you open the note's properties dialog. You can even set up a reminder timer for when your note will disappear, either by means of a sound alert, or by launching an external application. Once you have created a note, you can add scheduled alerts to the note to have them appear on a specific day, time or date. You can also decide whether the note should be displayed, or it should be closed. If you close the note, the content of the note will be saved to your document's data directory. There

After a recent hands-on with the Note 2, we can safely say that this is one phone that the average user won't find too appealing, unless they are a true gadget junkie who enjoys the eye candy and device quirks that are available. While it does have the features and the hardware specs that one would expect from a flagship smartphone, it does have some features and specs that are unique to this device.
